What is group accident insurance?

Group accident insurance is a policy businesses, groups and organizations can purchase to help protect the finances of their participants, students, athletes and volunteers in the event of an injury. Just like workers' compensation insurance can cover employees when accidents occur, a group accident policy can help cover the expenses of non-employees, like volunteers and participants. The policy can provide coverages for accidental medical, accidental dental and accidental death and dismemberment. There are even optional coverages that can be included, such as paralysis and catastrophic cash. Examples where a group accident policy can be helpful include the following:

- A volunteer slips and falls at a nonprofit.
- A youth football player gets injured at the game.
- A student is injured during a science experiment in the classroom.
